ACADEMIC REGALIA

The academic costumes worn by faculty and graduates trace their origin to the Middle Ages, when long-sleeved, hooded gowns were necessary for warmth in the unheated stone colleges and were worn at all academic events. Each European college or university had a set of garments used to indicate the status of those wearing them. An intercollegiate system of academic costumes has been used in the United States since 1894, with the garments being worn mostly on ceremonial occasions.

Wearing the academic costume symbolizes the placing of scholarship, that is the attempt to be intellectually honest, above personal preference, and current fashion. The academic procession symbolizes the continuity of the tradition of learning and the search for truth in its various forms through the centuries; it is meant to communicate the feeling that such an effort is of value.

The design of the gown indicates the degree: the associate and bachelor's gowns are simple with full sleeves. The master's gown is similar, except for the sleeve. The doctorate gown is more elaborate and quite full, boasting velvet edging and three velvet stripes on the full sleeve. The color of this velvet may be black or the color appropriate to the degree.

Hoods, which are worn over the gowns, vary in size with the degree. The hood has colored velvet edging which indicates the area of specialization, as does the tassel on the cap. The inside of the hood is velvet and its color arrangement indicates the college or university that granted the degree.

The Board of Trustees' gowns are symbolic of the office they hold in the college and are distinctive to Clovis Community College.

The commencement ceremony as a whole affirms the value of learning to society; recognizing the cooperation of many people, both on and off the campus, who have contributed to the learning enterprise; and, above all, celebrates the effort and achievements (symbolized by diplomas, degrees, and gowns) of the graduates themselves.
